

ruxi

ruxi is a multidisciplinary artist, producer, and DJ from Barcelona, and one of the rising names in Europe's new bass generation. With a strong musical foundation — having studied clarinet, drums, piano, and guitar — he later trained in music production and worked as a sound engineer at Artspace Barcelona, collaborating with artists such as Sneakbo, Maikel Delacalle, Atomic Otro Way and JC Reyes.

He was a key member of the Garage Kidds collective and active resident DJ at Razzmatazz's main room, ruxi has played in nearly every major venue in Barcelona, including Razzmatazz and Sala Apolo, and performed at Antídoto / Rinse FM in Madrid, one of Europe's most influential club nights.

In the past years, he has taken his sound to London, Bristol, Milan, Madrid, and Bilbao, sharing stages with leading UKG figures like Notion, Badger, IZCO, Bushbaby, Hamdi and Silva Bumpa.

As a producer, ruxi debuted with his EP REDEMPTION, a bold homage to old-school UK Dubstep, featuring the standout track "Maddaman Slang" with Sr. Wilson, one of Spain's most respected reggae voices. He also worked with the UK based label Psyked to put out an EP called "Let the speakes Peak".

Today, he is one of the creators of the emerging record label Barna92.

A project born from the energy and spectacle of EDM and evolved into the British underground—UKG, dubstep, bass music, and club music. Blending musicality, sound design, and raw energy, ruxi bridges classical training with the forward-thinking spirit of today's underground bass scene.
